a. a. Artists War Relief Sale. 5-12-17 (Concluded from last week)

The second and concluding session of the sale of pictures and sculptures, contributed by American artists for the benefit of the Relief Fund of the American Artists' Committee of One Hundred, co-operating with the Fraternité des Artistes de Paris, at the American Art Galleries, May 4, brought a total of $12,440 for 73 pictures, five sculptures, and one medallion, which added to the total of the first session, or $1,890.50, makes a grand total for the sale of $14,330.50, a fair result, only, as it had been hoped that the sale would net some $25,000. There were too many very "slight" works sent in for the sale, which pulled down the total. The attendance was not large. William A. Coffin, chairman of the American Committee, and Mr. Kirby made brief introductory addresses before the sale, and Mr. Coffin thanked the contributing artists, the American Art Association which gave its galleries and services, and others for the assistance and co-operation. He also read an appreciative cable from Leon Bonnat, the French artist. Mr. Thomas E. Kirby acted as auctioneer.

The highest figure of the session and sale was $1,500, given by Knoedler and Co. for an "Autumnal Landscape," by J. Francis Murphy. The same firm paid $700 for Irving R. Wiles' "Mirror Lake," and $550 for Blashfield's fine conception, "The Sisters," three heads of handsome young women personifying the three Republics of France, (1789), Russia (1917) and the United States (1776).

ART GOSSIP

Phila. Record - 5-6-05
Special Correspondence of "The Record."

New York, May 5.

THERE are two reasons for one's doubting that spring is really in New York—the temperature is in the early forties and there is an unusual number of exhibitions opening.

Of course, the war, which no one seems to take as seriously as it should be taken, has been the factor in several of the shows. This applies to the indoor exhibitions as well as the navy recruiting and its immense billboards by Reutendahl on the sides of buildings.

At the Knoedler Gallery there is a collection by the most notable French draughtsmen—Roden, Lepage, Barbier, Steuben, Boutet de Monville, Leandre and others.

The drawings are some of them war scenes, while others are simply decorative in character. But they are placed on sale for the entire benefit of the war-impaired artists of France, through the Appui aux Artistes. Mr. Knoedler contributed the use of his gallery and abolished all commissions on sales.

The American Artists' Committee of One Hundred show a collection of paintings and sculpture contributed by the painters and owners for the relief fund, co-operating with the Fraternite des Artistes, Paris.

This exhibition is hung at the American Art Galleries, and opened on Tuesday. The keynote of the motive back of this generous contribution is struck as one enters the galleries and passes Peale's Washington draped with French and American flags, and is repeated in Blashfield's "Sisters," showing heads of America, France and Russia, the latest addition to the family of republics. A bronze eagle by Paul Bartlett is representative of "Preparedness."

A drawing by Thomas. Nast also touches the tone of patriotism. It is much more finished than his cartoon style and shows Liberty lifting an American flag from a portrait of Washington, at the base of his statue. In the back rises the Capitol.

The contributions run the entire gamut of mediums. There are oils and pastels, chalk drawings and water colors. There is an interesting drawing in black and white chalk on gray paper by Lord Frederick Leighton, showing a study of drapery.

W. Sergeant Kendall's "L'Egyptienne" is a life-size head of a young woman with the charm of the East in the richness of its coloring. George Elmer Brown has a fine "Breezy Day at Etaples"—flat country with belts of forests, a blue sky and a fleet of clouds sweeping along ahead of the wind.

"Autumnal Landscape" is full of that love of the country that J. Francis Murphy can so well express. Quietness, rest and the peace of God—so strangely foreign to us in cities in these days of tension.

That same impression of restfulness is in Emil Carlsen's "Evening"—a sailing vessel quietly coming into an estuary of the sea between wide stretches of sandy shore and lighted with the afterglow of a summer day.

Childe Hassam again in this show gives us "The North Gorge Apple-dore," but not in as high a key as "The Gorge," shown in the Eclectic show last week, nor was the charming bathing figure contrasted in the softness of her outlines to the rugged rocks and the swirling of the blue surf.

In a pastel of yellow and brown Charles Noll Flagg shows "Friendly Fishing Boats," two Venetian boats lying side by side moored to a buoy. Their yellow and brown and white sails hang from the rigging in colorful masses.

Recalling again the object of the sale, "The Salute," by R. C. Zogbaum, shows a vessel of our old "White Fleet" firing a salute as she passes a town on the Mediterranean. It reminds one of Kipling's tribute to "Fighting Bob" Evans—"Zogbaum does things with his pencil, and I do things with my pen; while you sit up in a conning tower, boss of ten thousand men."

Colin Campbell Cooper shows "Sunset near Florence"—a view from a height overlooking a village on the hillside and away to a range of blue mountains and the sky of evening, in all the charm of water color.

Elliott Daingerfield has a water color also, "Moonlight," but into it he has not put as much fantasy as he does his oils.

"Brook and Meadow," by Edward Redfield, shows the characteristic choice of subject of the painter, but not his usual dexterity in handling ice-bound streams and the fields of winter snows.

There is a richly decorative "August" by Kenyon Cox, showing the seated figure of a woman, draped in a deep red covering. In her hand she carries a sickle. The figure of a nude boy approaches her, bringing on his back a sheaf of wheat. Both are against the background of a summer sky.

A twinkling line of lights in a low foreshore and a harbor with floating ice-floes, the dull color of winter, water and a cold sky, is Birge Harrison's "The Light of Levis."

Jonas Lie's "Old Covered Bridge" is full of the intense light of summer noon and the stream sweeps by, painted with a thorough mastery of moving waters.

"Springtime," by De Witt Lockman, as shown elsewhere on this page, is a study of mauve and purple.

"Foam-swept Reef," by Frederick J. Waugh, has all the movement and light that one has come to expect of this painter and with the wet rocks of the foreground makes a most appealing canvas for those who love the sea.

There are other paintings and drawings by Harry Watrous, Andre Castaigne, Dewing, Hubbell, Mora, Rosen, Ryder, Vonnob, Weir, Aitken and many others—168 works comprising the entire exhibition.

LA FRATERNITÉ DES ARTISTES AND
THE AMERICAN ARTISTS' COMMITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED

THE American Artists' Committee was organized in New York, September 25, 1914. Its first circular of appeal for funds to help the suffering families of French soldier-artists was sent out in October to artists throughout the United States. The names of sixty artists headed that appeal. The Committee later adopted the name, "The American Artists' Committee of One Hundred," and now has one hundred and seventy members, resident in twenty-nine cities and towns of America, besides the city of New York, where it has its headquarters at the American Fine Arts Society Building, 215 West 57th Street.

We have sent out other appeals to artists and friends of art during the period of the Great War and in February, 1915, we held an exhibition with excellent financial results at the galleries of M. Knoedler & Co., Fifth Avenue. In September last we sent out a letter-circular addressed to "Friends of France and Friends of Art" which brought in a substantial sum. The present Exhibition, all the paintings and sculpture being entered for sale at auction without reserve, is the result of an invitation to our members and other artists. The response was very generous, the names are the best in American art and the examples are representative.

The Fraternité des Artistes, headed by Monsieur Léon Bonnat, is composed of members of the great Société des Artistes Français, the Société Nationale des Beaux-Arts, the Salon d'Automne, etc.—a union of all the French painters, sculptors, architects, engravers, illustrators, and mural decorators—by far the greater number belonging to the Société des Artistes Français, a State institution. The relief work of the Fraternité is carried on through the latter society's efficient permanent organization, in connection with that of the Société Nationale, also "reconnu d'utilité publique," as is the Fraternité itself. Neither M. Bonnat nor any of his associates have ever put before us the crying needs of the dependents of their confrères, over a thousand of whom have fallen on the field of honor and many more maimed or blinded for life, unless specifically asked to do so. They have done and are doing all that is possible to give financial aid themselves and are most grateful to us for our brotherly assistance. The letters and cables I have so frequently received from M. Bonnat always express more and more gratitude and we, on our part, consider it a privilege and an honor to be associated with the eminent artists of France in the work they are doing for the destitute and the unfortunate. We are glad, too, to widen the circle of the supporters of our Fund and we gratefully acknowledge all that helps to tighten the bonds that unite us to a noble nation.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. Any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance may be rejected by the auctioneer, if, in his judgment, such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

2. The highest bidder shall be the buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the auctioneer shall either decide the same or put up for re-sale the lot so in dispute.

3. Payment shall be made of all or such part of the purchase money as may be required, and the names and addresses of the purchasers shall be given immediately on the sale of every lot, in default of which the lot so purchased shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

Payment of that part of the purchase money not made at the time of sale shall be made within ten days thereafter, in default of which the undersigned may either continue to hold the lots at the risk of the purchaser and take such action as may be necessary for the enforcement of the sale, or may at public or private sale, and without other than this notice, re-sell the lots for the benefit of such purchaser, and the deficiency (if any) arising from such re-sale shall be a charge against such purchaser.

4. Delivery of any purchase will be made only upon payment of the total amount due for all purchases at the sale.

Deliveries will be made on sales days between the hours of 9 A. M. and 1 P. M., and on other days—except holidays—between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M.

Delivery of any purchase will be made only at the American Art Galleries, or other place of sale, as the case may be, and only on presenting the bill of purchase.

Delivery may be made, at the discretion of the Association, of any purchase during the session of the sale at which it was sold.

5. Shipping, boxing or wrapping of purchases is a business in which the Association is in no wise engaged, and will not be performed by the Association for purchasers. The Association will, however, afford to purchasers every facility for employing at current and reasonable rates carriers and packers; doing so, however, without any assumption of responsibility on its part for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such service.

6. Storage of any purchase shall be at the sole risk of the purchaser. Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter, while the Association will exercise due caution in caring for and delivering such purchase, it will not hold itself responsible if such purchase be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed.

Storage charges will be made upon all purchases not removed within ten days from the date of the sale thereof.

7. Guarantee is not made either by the owner or the Association of the correctness of the description, genuineness or authenticity of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing, or any imperfection not noted. Every lot is on public exhibition one or more days prior to its sale, after which it is sold "as is" and without recourse.

The Association exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly, and will give consideration to the opinion of any trustworthy expert to the effect that any lot has been incorrectly catalogued, and, in its judgment, may either sell the lot as catalogued or make mention of the opinion of such expert, who thereby would become responsible for such damage as might result were his opinion without proper foundation.
